What are cookies?

Cookies are small files stored in a browser. They can maintain a session, identify a user or remember preferences. Cookies strictly necessary to provide a service are distinct from analytics and advertising cookies.

Cookies used on this website

We do not use analytics, advertising or cross-visitor tracking cookies when you browse the public information pages. Language selection does not store a cookie.

The separate sign-in area for authorised editors may use cookies necessary for authentication and a secure session. They relate to administrative access; viewing public pages does not require signing in. Session cookies expire at the end of the session; cookies that remember a sign-in are tied to the validity of that sign-in.

Browser settings

You can delete or block cookies in your browser settings. Blocking essential sign-in cookies may prevent editors from signing in or maintaining their session.
